

The Flying Pigs

BY Maria

Once upon a time
there were three
flying pigs, Joey,
Jimmy, and Johnny.
They were triplets
and were known as the three flying
"JJJ's."

They were always playing tricks on everyone.

One sunny afternoon they flew over the field
far away from their family farm.

Soon they were lost. It began to get dark. They became frightened.

They flew and flew until their wings were tired and worn. They landed in the middle of the dark woods.

Joey led the way to a big evergreen tree. They gathered under the tree, but it was very cold. The wind was howling. Johnny discovered a cave.

He called to the other triplets
to come inside.

The cave was warm. They

snuggled together
and slept until dawn.

The JJJ's heard voices
outside the cave.

When Jimmy
looked out he was face to face with the flying pig

police and the triplet's parents. The flying JJJ's were happy. Everybody
hugged. The triplets promised to be good and to obey

their parents.

They told all the other flying piglets about how they were saved.

They warned them to never fly far away from home. Everybody lived happily ever after.

The End.
