One day Lily the Leopard was licking her strawberry ice cream. Lily loved ice cream and strawberry was absolutely, positively, her favorite flavor of all.

“It’s a wonderful day”, thought Lily. “The sun is shining and the birds are out”, but her day dreams were interrupted when she heard her best friend Sleepy the Sloth call her.

She dropped her ice cream and ran all the way to Sleepy's jungle gym. When she got there, she spotted Sleepy lying lazily on the top branch of his tree.

That's when it happened! Lily realized she had lost her strawberry ice cream!

“Oh No! I lost my ice cream”, wailed Lily.
But just then she cheered up. She had an idea.

“I’m going to find my ice cream”, said Lily.
“Sorry, I’m too sleepy to help”, replied
Sleepy

“Fine. I’ll do it myself”, said Lily. So she set off to find her ice cream.

First she looked in her toy box.

No ice cream. Next she looked along an abandoned road, still no ice cream. She began to pout.

But just as she was ready to give up, she heard a wonderful, unique, amazing, sound like none other...
