Editorials

The controversial law of walking on the grass has been reopened again and Enterprise America is unsure of what to do. Many people are seen to believe that maybe this law should be changed or added onto. The law is that you will be fined if you are caught stepping on the grass without a "grass pass". This rule may end up being worse than the pass cost itself. The actually pass cost 4$ and the fine for being caught without one on the grass is community service so, is the pass and all the trouble worth the fine? When asking the police about this they simply replied with "I have no comment on this situation". A citizen here who ended up being fined said "I think this rule should be followed but, the community service was timely. Be sure to read in on this situation next week for more on where the situation ends up.

Citizen Quote:

"I think that the whole situation is very overly controlled. Maybe if we pave away all of the grass then this wouldn't be a problem to begin with"

-Ginger (A GrassKeeper)

What business has the best customer service and why?

"I think that all of the different shops are very high quality and I could never pick just one.

-Fellow Citizen

What does the Non-Profit Organization benefit today?

Helping with Cancer research is a serious topic. The non-Profit Organization is here to help! Go over to the building today and help.

Citizen Quote:

"Just turn it all to grass. The bugs are all part of the community as well.

-Terry the Tree Hugger

Citizen Quote:

"Pathfinders is a really good company that will help you find your path"
